ABOUT FIELD

Field Wealth Intelligence is the operating system for the RIA channel, an intelligence layer that sits beneath the advisor's existing application stack, aggregating and normalizing data across custodians, portfolio management systems, billing engines, and CRMs into a single, unified model. For asset managers, this means unprecedented visibility into advisor behavior, wallet share, and real-time opportunity signals, before your competitors see them.

One Unified View

The initial engagement is anchored in Distribution Analytics, activating your existing data pack investments immediately. As Field scales across the RIA channel, a proprietary RIA Intelligence layer will be incorporated into the platform, creating a complete picture of how products move, where relationships are strongest, and where opportunity lives.
